CAPTAINS LOG

Hello ladies, this is your Captain speaking. I am writing to you from the comfort of the BAC yacht, currently moored up in Monaco. (I take it you do all know about the yacht?) Sadly my commitments to relaxation have made it difficult to attend any of the "summer" league matches yet, but I'm hoping for an improvement in the weather that will allow me to land the BAC helicopter (yes, I've got that as well) and catch a game or two.

I was walking down the street the other day and saw a sign that said "46-inch plasma TV for sale - volume stuck on full so only £1." I thought, "I can't turn that down". A good deal you might think. But is it as good as the offer of playing hockey for free? Well, in an attempt to ease the current "goalie-crunch" crisis that has afflicted the club we have decided that for the 2012-13 season match fees will not apply to goalkeepers for league games. I'm afraid other fees such as club membership will still be required (they cover boring stuff like affiliation, league fees and insurance) but there will be no match fees. This is in the hope of encouraging one or two people to give goalkeeping a go, or perhaps a way of encouraging someone to move over from another club. So the offer stands - you can get your hockey for free from September, just so long as you agree to dress up like the Michelin man and have people hit hockey balls at you.

Speaking of Michelin, my lunch is ready so I must dash.

SUMMER VETS TOURNAMENT

On May 19th BAC's over 30's squad ventured to Bath University for a day out and to take part in the over 30's Vets tournament:

The young ones

The day was a huge success not only did Sophie get her marking done but...BAC 'won'!! Ahem.....

BAC have also won the FA cup and Wimbledon!!

OLYMPICS IN THE PARK

The BAC Olympics In The Park event WILL BE TAKING PLACE!! Saturday 21st July @ 12pm Up the Downs (come rain or shine). Liz has the egg's freezing nicely for the egg and spoon race and we have managed to secure some space hoppers thanks to Sophie!! All preparations are coming together nicely! More details on this and of exactly whereabouts on the Downs this is taking place will be circulated shortly.
